

Shortlist of junction improvement options confirmed as part of Army and Navy Sustainable Transport Package

Plans to transform the way people travel in Chelmsford have moved a step closer after the expected shortlist of improvement options for the Army and Navy junction was agreed ahead of public consultation in the summer.

The Army and Navy Sustainable Transport Package offers an opportunity to provide people with enhanced travel choices in Chelmsford and to encourage safer, greener and healthier ways of getting around the city, especially for shorter journeys where walking and cycling are to be encouraged as the natural choice.

As a result of the latest option assessment analysis, the two-way flyover has now been discounted for several reasons, and the three remaining options - separate T-junctions, hamburger roundabout and enlarged roundabout - have been confirmed as those on the shortlist that is expected to go to public consultation, subject to some final assessment.

More information about the remaining junction options, why the flyover has been discounted and the wider Army and Navy Sustainable Transport Package is available on the Essex Highways website.
